

Eva Cammarata is a womenswear designer, educator and researcher based in London. Holding an MA in Womenswear Design, an MA in Digital Fashion (specialising in CAD and knitwear) and an MA in Education and Pedagogy, she founded her ethical luxury label in 2010, showcasing in London, Paris and New York. Eva's practice bridges artisanal textile craft and digital fabrication, with a focus on biotech and organic fibres. As CLO3D Lecturer and researcher at Istituto Marangoni London, she pioneers the integration of 3D design within fashion education. Her work is grounded in sustainability, material innovation and the enduring intelligence of handcraft.